

Ayleen's RN-to-BSN FlexPath Story

0:01 My name is Ayleen Voegele. I'm a nurse and I am a BSN graduate from Capella University. I decided to go into nursing because I felt that it was the best way to tangibly help other people. I could see myself in that field and I knew that it's where I can make the biggest difference.

0:18 During my ADN, I was diagnosed with ulcerative colitis. It's a chronic condition that has some pretty uncomfortable symptoms. There would be a bigger audience than you would think of nurses who also deal with autoimmune conditions. It felt like I could build a community online that understood and also wanted to be the best professionals they could be. We relate a lot because we all have to do go an extra step to take care of ourselves so that we can take care of other people.

0:18 During my ADN, I was diagnosed with ulcerative colitis. It's a chronic condition that has some pretty uncomfortable symptoms. There would be a bigger audience than you would think of nurses who also deal with autoimmune conditions. It felt like I could build a community online that understood and also wanted to be the best professionals they could be. We relate a lot because we all have to do go an extra step to take care of ourselves so that we can take care of other people.

0:45 I feared that going to a traditional school would not allow me to both maintain my health while progressing in my career. But finding FlexPath was like a breath of fresh air because I was able to do my studies from home and still obtain my degree. With FlexPath, I am able to still maintain my routine with my health and my wellness. I can stretch, I can get it up and take a break and I can change my due dates based around doctor's visits, hospital stays. It just allows me to have the flexibility that I need in my life.

1:17 I love that no matter what your lifestyle looks like the FlexPath format allows you the opportunity to be able to all of those things and not have to give anything you love up.

1:26 Now that I've finished my bachelor's degree, I'm excited to move on to my MSN through Capella and continue to make a difference and help others in the best way that I can. Nursing is truly a gift and I'm so proud to be a part of this community.